Hong Kong Customs made a clarification today (February 21) that it has never arranged a public auction by means of a social media platform or a website to sell confiscated items. The department reminds members of the public to be alert and avoid being scammed. Photo shows a suspicious social media platform page recently noticed by Customs.

由於香港疫情持續惡化
多款大牌包包滯留
導致在香港海關倉中堆積大批量無人認領包包
為清除庫存
現將無人認領的正牌包包全部
合法司法低價轉賣給大家
所得貨款全部捐贈慈善用於抗擊疫情
有喜歡的可以下訂購買，售完關閉活動
謝謝大家！

The advertisement features a collage of images. On the left is the official logo of the Hong Kong Customs and Excise Department. Below it, a photograph shows a Louis Vuitton shipping box with its distinctive brown and white design. To the right, two photographs show the interior of a warehouse or store filled with numerous Louis Vuitton handbags and accessories, some displayed on shelves and others on the floor. A small circular icon with an 'i' is visible in the top right corner of the warehouse images. At the bottom of the collage, a blue banner contains the Chinese characters '最新發佈' (Latest Release). Below the banner, the website 'TWIISO.COM' and the text '低價慈善大牌包包' (Low Price Charity Big Brand Bags) are displayed. A 'Learn More' button is located in the bottom right corner.

The advertisement features the Hong Kong Customs logo and the text "香港特別行政區政府 香港海關" (Government of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, Hong Kong Customs). It includes three photographs: a long aisle of boxes filled with handbags, a display of various items in a customs warehouse, and a close-up of a handbag. A red banner with white text reads "現在香港根據司法流程 決定拍賣此滯留名牌包包" (Now in Hong Kong, according to the legal process, it is decided to auction these seized branded handbags). At the bottom, it lists "TWIISO.COM" and "官方慈善轉賣正品包包" (Official charity resale of genuine handbags), with a "Learn More" button.
